The remains of Commodore Maury were, on Wednesday last, taken to Hollywood Cemetery, and re-interred. He deserves to sleep in the bosom of historic Richmond, among the great and good of historic Virginia.

THE STEP ON THE STAIR.

How neatly and loving in the followng verses, has some one expressed the thought that springs daily from many a heart while waiting patiently for "The Step on the Stair :"

Twilight is coming, and work is o'er, And I am free from all care; I sliently, patiently watch, and I wait, For the sound of the step on the stair.

Tis a welcome sound to my listening car. And my heart bests quick and fast;

For I know that my darling's returning to me,

And the toil of the day is past.

Baby is eleeping within his warm nest, The Tex Kettle sings with loudgles; Nearer the sound of the step on the stairs-

Husband's come to his tea. He comes and I'm happy; my heart is at rest: I've no trouble, nor shadow of care, How he'll laugh when I tail him I watch and For the sound of his stop on the stair

God grant that we ever may thus happy be; All trials we'll equally share,
If I were called first to that bright home above,
I'd still list for his steep on the stair,

ON THE BOOMING MISSIS-SIPPI Love on a Log.
